

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fuel processing reactor is provided, comprising a shift catalyst bed disposed in a shell and tube reactor. The thermal stress on the present reactor during normal operation is reduced by cooling/heating both the shell and the tubes in the reactor. The present reactor may further comprise other beds such as hydrodesulfurizer catalyst beds, metal oxide beds, or sulfur polisher beds.

130109.435/216406_1.DOC